► Two New Metrics

- Investment Realization Period
  - How many years will it take to recoup city investment through rent savings?
- 10-year Rent Savings
  - After 10 years, how much $ in rent savings will we have generated for tenants?

*Each of these metrics are calculated using location-specific achievable market rents; i.e., they account for variations in market strength.

Development Update: At the April 8, 2024, Action Review meeting, staff shared that the developer had recently learned – and had recently shared with staff - that there is environmental contamination on the site. At that time, the developer advised that they would be working to evaluate the impact of this new information on their development plans. Over the next week, the developer explored potential options to address the contamination to keep the development viable. The developer advised staff on April 15, 2024, that they are withdrawing their proposal because they have determined that the development is no longer deemed viable based on the added economic strain resulting from the environmental contamination. Staff will continue to be available to the developer as they work to evaluate their next steps.
